

De Nevo D.O.

Discussing the future of Osteopathic Medicine

- home
- tags
- search
- feed

Welcome to De Novo D.O.

Posted by: barry@oisonline.org in Untagged on Sep 18, 2008

Welcome to De Novo D.O. the Blog for the New Student Physician.

Whether on purpose or as a result of heavy workloads, medical school admissions processes are among the world's greatest kept secrets. Over the years, I have become very aware of the frustration of scores of prospective medical students with the process. Years ago, I promised myself that, if given the right opportunity, I would do whatever I could to alleviate much of this frustration. Well, this blog, De Novo D.O., will dedicate itself to that end.

You will want to visit this blog often and take part in exposing the myths about medical school admissions. I plan on discussing topics such as: "Don't Believe Everything Your Pre-med Adviser Tells You", "Three Things Admission's Committees Hate", "The Secret Society Behind the Admission's Curtain", and "Avoiding Admission's Mistakes".

I am a believer that almost anyone who aspires to become a physician can accomplish their goals, if they are willing to put all of their efforts forward. I will make every effort to assist you to maneuver through the numerous barriers that lie between you and medical school, so your input will be welcome.

Barry A. Doublestein, DSL

Comment \(0\)

---